that the hay was ready..And Warthon said he would attend to hauling it.. But troubles with the mob coming on, warthon was prevented from hauling the hay, and soon after the prairie burnt, and the hay with it.. Jos Taylor said further that Warthon came to his house and accused him of being a dishonest man and a liar.. And made several attempts tp strike him with an ax ,, and further he stated that he called Warthon a liar and told him, his heart was black as the bottomless pit of hell.. The affidavit of Mary Taylor was then read.. As follows(to wit) Dec. 2. 1847/ Joseph Warthon came to our house last Saturday a week ago, he appeared in a good humor when he came in, and talked very sociable a little while , when my husband told him that he had not been to Missouri yet, had had his collar bone broken, and had not got so as to have much use of his left arm yet My husband said to him I will pay you if you will give me time not with standing the debt is not just.. Warthon said the fuss coming on in Nauvoo was the reason he did not haul the hay,, my husband had before agreed to pay him when he went to missouri and got him money from there, to get rid of him,he told my husband he was dishonest and did not he intended to pay his debts and was as honest as he Warthon was.. He then said my husband was a god dammed liar, and a dishonest scoundrel,, my husband then ordered him out of the house, he then slipped out by the door, said god damm you, I don't care who the hell the house belongs to, I will say what I please, and threatened to knock my husband teeth down his throat, saying or swearing that my husband followed him with a butcher knife,, my husband was mending or trying to mend, his shoes, when he came in and still had his knife in his hand.

my husband took the knife out of his right and put it into his----- hand, and told him if he wanted to fight a man with only one hand to fight with, he could do so,, when he threatened to knock my husbands teeth down his throat,, my husband when Warthon made towards him tried to pick up the ax, but Warthon gave him a shove and got the ax himself.. I then jumped in between him and my husband,, how he flourished the ax I don't know as
